FACULTY SEARCH

Brooklyn College of the City University of New York (CUNY) invites applications for a projected full-time tenure-track Assistant Professor position for our CACREP accredited School Counseling Program in the Department of School Psychology, Counseling, and Leadership (SPCL) with a starting date of August 2018.

The Brooklyn College School Counseling Program prepares carefully selected, qualified, and ethnically and culturally diverse students to serve as culturally competent, caring, and ethically responsible P-12 school counselors within our urban educational region. We strive to prepare our graduates to advocate for every student so they receive the highest quality education and to promote the development of students' academic, emotional, social, physical, and spiritual wellbeing.

Candidates with a strong commitment to social justice and multiculturalism are expected to teach graduate level school counseling courses; supervise students in field experiences; advise students; pursue scholarship and a research agenda; participate in curriculum, program development, and accreditation; collaborate with school and agency partners; and serve on department and university committees.

Brooklyn College is a microcosm of the ethnically rich borough of Brooklyn it serves as well as a mirror of the wide diversity in New York City itself. A vibrant, intellectually engaged community, our student body comprises individuals from 150 countries, speaking 105 different languages.

The College and the Department of School Psychology, Counseling, and Leadership are committed to enhancing and supporting a diverse and inclusive community of students, faculty, and staff.
